

Under the Bonnet: Web Coding for Technical Communicators with Dave Gash

Novotel Surfers Paradise
Monday, October 15th, 2018 ~ 9.00am–5.00pm

There can't be many of you who haven't been using HTML for documentation delivery for quite some time. That said, how familiar are you with exactly what is happening, especially if you use a conversion tool? Dave's Under the HTML bonnet workshop delves far more deeply into HTML than many of us do and shines a light of all sorts of features that most of us take for granted.

In this workshop Dave covers HTML, CSS (Cascading Style Sheets) both internal and external, and introductory JavaScript. Dave explains how they relate together and how we can make them work for us. (Note, though, that this is not a JavaScript workshop.)

For those of you who don't know Dave, he is an energetic and highly sought after trainer from California, USA. When he's not training or presenting at conferences, Dave works for Google as a technical communicator.

If you have the Prerequisite knowledge and the Hardware required, why not book now?
